FARNCOMBE LIGHTS UP!

On Friday, 7 December the Farncombe Christmas Lights were switched on by the Mayor of Godalming, Councillor Nick Williams. Godalming Town Council was delighted that once again the Farncombe Day Centre played host and visitors to the event were treated to performances by children from Farncombe Infant School and the Godalming Youth Band.

The Town Council would like to give a special thank you to The Round Table for bringing their illuminated sleigh with Santa aboard, which had the children both delighted and enthralled. Santa and the Christmas lights were obviously the biggest draw for the children, but the parents and adults equally enjoyed the mulled wine served by the Natter Café and the refreshments provided by The Farncombe Day Centre where they were joined by the Foreign Secretary the RT Hon Jeremy Hunt MP.

The Town Council is pleased that not only has the light display extended over the last few years, but more importantly so has the community involvement in the event.

Councillor Steve Cosser who was instrumental in instigating Christmas Lights in Farncombe in 2013 said "It was fantastic to see so many local people attending and enjoying the switch on. The numbers grow each year as do the number of lights. Many thanks to the Town for its support for this event and for the work of the Farncombe Initiative in the area."
