

Floral Godalming

Godalming Town Council hopes that residents are enjoying the new floral planters and hanging baskets located throughout the town centre bringing a gorgeous splash of colour with their delightful blooms.

Godalming Town Council is delighted to have won the Gordon Devereux Rose Bowl for Civic Pride at the Go Godalming in Bloom competition for its Floral Godalming displays and the community planting at Boarden Bridge.

On a Saturday in June, Michelle Daniels and her team of volunteers armed with trowels, shovels, gardening gloves and a plan, worked on the flowerbed along the footpath leading to the bridge. The area by the newly renovated Boarden Bridge has now been transformed into a sustainable and pollinator-friendly flowerbed with flowers and plants funded by Godalming Town Council.

The Council would like to express its grateful thanks to The Peter Caudle Memorial Trust without whom Floral Godalming would not have taken place and also to Michelle Daniels and her team. Floral Godalming will remain in place until September 2018.

If you would like to support Floral Godalming in 2019, please contact community@godalming-tc.gov.uk.

New Memorial Plaques

At the eleventh hour of the eleventh month of 2018 the Godalming War Memorial will be re-dedicated to remember all those who died in 20th Century conflicts. 281 Godalming men fell during the First World War, but not all of their names are recorded on the Memorials found in St Peter & St Paul's Church, St Johns Church Farncombe, Busbridge Church, The United Church and the Fire Station.

Since August 1914, both Godalming Town Council and Godalming Museum have recorded as accurately as possible the list of the names of the 281 Godalming men who fell in the First World War. Funded by public subscriptions and the kind generosity of The Peter Caudle Memorial Trust, Godalming Town Council has had all 281 names from the First World War plus subsequent campaigns, engraved on four new plaques to be installed on the wall of the War Memorial next to the existing plaques commemorating those who died in the Second World War.

Remembrance Badges

As part of the 100 year commemoration of the end of the First World War, Godalming Town Council will be gifting a commemorative badge to every child member of youth organisations who participate in the annual Godalming Remembrance Parade.
