GODALMING CELEBRATES NATIONAL RECOGNITION AT LOO OF THE YEAR AWARDS

Godalming Town Council is delighted to announce that Godalming has received national recognition at the National Loo of the Year Awards, presented on 14 January.

Godalming has been welcomed into the Local Authority Public Toilets Top Twenty "Premier League"; a prestigious accolade recognising the very best public toilet facilities across the UK. The award highlights the Crown Court Toilets as an outstanding example of high-quality design and construction.

The Crown Court Toilets received an overall Platinum Award, along with Platinum Plus for Accessibility, reflecting the Council's commitment to inclusive, well-designed, and welcoming public facilities for residents and visitors alike.

This achievement follows a significant renovation project made possible through funding from the UK Government and Godalming Town Council. The project was delivered through the collaborative efforts of Drake & Kannemeyer LLP, who provided the design, and Endwell Contracts, who carried out the construction works.

Andy Jefferey, CEO of Godalming Town Council, said: "This award is a testament to the hard work, care, and collaboration of everyone involved in the project. We are proud that Godalming's facilities are being recognised at a national level, particularly for accessibility and design excellence."

Godalming Town Council would like to thank all partners involved and extend its congratulations to everyone who contributed to this successful project.

Notes for Editors: The Loo of the Year Awards has been rewarding the very best of washrooms throughout the UK since 1987. Recognising the need for 'away from home' washrooms to be of the highest standard in terms of accessibility, hygiene, repair, and facilities. The Loo of the Year Award is now the established benchmark of washroom provision and compliance with national standards.
